Labor/time costs for services outside of routine project management:

There are times when it may be in the customer's best interest for Fairview's supervisory team to perform labor or obtain materials that would ordinarily be provided by subcontractors. Fairview can often assign supervisory resources to these tasks in lieu of waiting for available trades. Budget for these occurrences are normally accounted for in the preconstruction estimate. When necessary to shift supervisory resources for fill-in tasks, we will document the additional cost of service as follows:

Specialized Trade (Finish Carpenter): _____ hours x $75 per hour = _____
Project Manager (general labor): _____ hours x $65 per hour = _____
Other/Supintendent (general labor): _____ hours x $35 per hour = _____
